Medicine and Religion in the Life of an Ottoman Sheikh Ahmed Ragab, 2019-03-01 In 1768 Ahmad al-Damanhuri became the rector (shaykh) of al-Azhar which was one of the most authoritative and respected positions in the Ottoman Empire. He occupied this position until his death. Despite being a prolific author whose writings are largely extant, al-Damanhuri remains almost unknown and much of his work awaits study and analysis. This book aims to shed light on al-Damanhuri's diverse intellectual background and that of his contemporaries, building on and continuing the scholarship on the academic thought of the late Ottoman Empire. The book specifically investigates the intersection of medical and religious knowledge in Eighteenth Century Egypt. It takes as its focus a manuscript on anatomy by al-Damanhuri dated 1778 entitled 'The Clear Statement on the Science of Anatomy' (al-qawl al-arf ilm al-tashr). The book includes an edited translation of 'The Clear Statement' which is a well-known but unstudied and unpublished manuscript. It also provides a summary translation and analysis of al-Damanhuri's own intellectual autobiography. As such, the book provides an important window into a period that remains deeply understudied and a topic that continues to cause debates and controversies. This study therefore will be of keen interest to scholars working on the post-Classical Islamic world as well as historians of religion, science and medicine looking beyond Europe in the Early Modern period.

Popper, 2004-03-25 In the face of Islam's own internal struggles, it is not easy to see who we should support and how. This report provides detailed descriptions of subgroups, their stands on various issues, and what those stands may mean for the West. Since the outcomes can matter greatly to international community that community might wish to influence them by providing support to appropriate actors. The author recommends a mixed approach of providing specific types of support to those who can influence the outcomes in desirable ways.

Militant Islam Stephen Vertigans, 2008-10-30 Militant Islam provides a sociological framework for understanding the rise and character of recent Islamic militancy. It takes a systematic approach to the phenomenon and includes analysis of cases from around the world, comparisons with militancy in other religions and their causes and consequences. The sociological concepts and theories examined in the book include those associated with social closure, social movements, nationalism, risk, fear, and de-civilising. These are applied within three main themes: characteristics of militant Islam, multi-layered causes, and the consequences of militancy in particular. Western reactions within the war on terror, interrelationships between religious and secular behaviour, terrorism and counter-terrorism, popular support and opposition are explored. Through the examination of examples from across Muslim societies and communities, the analysis challenges the popular tendency to concentrate upon al-Qaeda and the Middle East. This book will be of interest to students of Sociology, Political Science, and International Relations, in particular those taking courses on Islam, religion, terrorism, political violence, and related regional studies.
